Building peace for a healthy community

What we do...

We teach communication and conflict resolution skills to youth and adults through experiential workshops.

Workshops incorporate:

- Community-building games
- Ready-Set-Go process for conflict resolution in schools and community groups
- Relaxation and self-reflection techniques
- How to defuse a physical conflict
- Respect and care for nature
- Learning about international and local peacemakers
- Ways to become a peacemaker themselves, in their home, school, and community.

We Empower individuals to integrate these skills into their daily life in the classroom, in their family, and on the street.

We Engage the neighborhood with strategies for nonviolent social change.

*"You must be the change you want to see in this world."
