CHICAGO ARCHITECTURE FROM THREE PERSPECTIVES: LAND, AIR, AND SEA Wednesday, September 19, 2018

Admire Chicago's famous architectural highlights by land, air, and sea as our step-on guide from the Chicago Architecture Foundation shows us Chicago's finest historic and modern landmarks, including the Main Campus of Illinois Institute of Technology. This is an outstanding example of the work of Ludwig Mies van der Rohe (1886-1969), an educator and one of the 20th century's most influential architects.

Then we'll enjoy a delicious buffet lunch with stunning aerial views from the 95th floor of the Hancock Building. Later we'll relax and cruise along the Chicago River as our docent provides an overview of the many and various building styles, with stories of the people who designed and built Chicago.

The Chicago Architecture Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to advancing public interest in architecture and design. Their famous tours are guided by one of the most respected volunteer groups in the world. CAF docents receive hundreds of hours of training about Chicago architecture and history and love to share their knowledge with visitors. The entire ITT campus was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 2005.

On the afternoon river cruise we'll get more great views of Chicago's architecture accompanied by insider info from an expert guide. We'll see all the most important buildings on one tour—a hard-to-accomplish task by foot. Snap photos of the Willis (Sears) Tower, the Old Post Office, 360 Chicago Observation Deck on the 94th floor of the Hancock, the Wrigley Building, and Aon Center.
