The Hardy House,
Another Southeastern Wisconsin Treasure

Tuesday, July 8, 2014
10 AM to 12 Noon, Tallent Hall #182

Little was known about Frank Lloyd Wright’s Thomas Hardy House on Main Street in Racine until author Mark Hertzberg’s book was published in 2006. Hertzberg will give us the story of this 110-year old Prairie School house, including the drawings for a more elaborate home than was eventually built. He’ll show us photos taken by five of the first six owners.

Hertzberg facilitated the sale of the house in September, 2012 to Eugene Szymczak, its seventh owner, who literally saved the house with a year-long restoration project. Hertzberg’s photos will provide us with a detailed story of this extensive rehabilitation project. In addition, he’ll take us through the design, construction, and early years of Wright's SC Johnson 15-story Research Tower, which opened in 1950 and closed 1982, and will be open for tours in June, 2014.
