Colleagues,

Warning: Please don't confuse this announcement with the earlier announcements about First Friday. (And I hope you are all planning to attend First Friday!)

A couple of weeks ago we floated the idea of a new faculty event focused on research, scholarship and creative activity. Your responses were very positive. Thanks to everyone who provided input.

We are happy to announce that the first of these events will be held next Friday, September 13, from 3:00 to 5:00 in the Galbraith room. Michael Hansen from the Politics, Philosophy and Law Department will present his recent paper "Women and the Radical Right: Exploring Gendered Differences in Vote Choice for Radical Right Parties in Europe", and William Parker from the Mathematics and Physics Department will present his Wisconsin Teaching Fellows & Scholars project in a talk titled "Do Students Experience Awe in Introductory Astronomy Course Activities?"

We intended this to be informal. Snacks and refreshments will be provided. The talks will be short, 15-20 minutes each, with plenty of time for questions, discussion, and socializing until 5:00.

Anticipating a smashing success, we have booked the Galbraith room for the third Fridays in October, November, February, March and April. If you are interested in sharing your work with your colleagues from all over the university, let me know and we'll put you on the schedule.

A special note to those of you new to UW-Parkside. One of the nice things about being at a small university is how easy it is to get to know people from a variety of disciplines. This will be a good way to start making that happen for you. And if you don't know where the Galbraith room is, it's the big conference room up by the Chancellor's office. Let me know if you need directions.

Hope to see you all tomorrow at First Friday, then next week for Faculty Research and Scholarship Friday, then the third Friday of every month after that.

Gary & Rob
