

7th Annual Online Course Showcase

Wednesday, September 28, 2016
12:00 – 1:30 p.m. in the Galbraith Room

Please join those who participated in the summer Online Course Developers Workshop at the seventh annual showcase. Learn about the following aspects of their new online courses:

- Qian Ye, BUSN 495: Business Capstone: Bringing face to face online: analyzing business cases and making strategies with online groups
- Mary Waid, COMM 494, Communication Internship: Integrating academic knowledge in communication into the professional experience in the workplace
- Andy Von Dissen, MATH 112, College Algebra II: Managing functions, logarithms, sequences and series in the online environment
- Amy Kushner, ENGL 204, Writing for Business and Industry:
- Rachel Headley, GEOS 106, Global Climate Change: Adapting a face-to-face, jig-saw activity to the online environment for a large, general education science class;
- David Glaub, ENGL 167, Introduction to Literature: Offering unit-ending interactive checklists to help students stay on task.

Lunch will be provided.

Please RSVP via the online registration form.

This showcase session is sponsored by the Teaching & Learning Center and the Provost's Office.