

10th Annual Online Course Showcase

Wednesday, October 23, 2019

12:00 – 1:30 p.m.

Learning Tech Lab, WYLL D103

At this showcase presenters who completed the Summer Course Development Workshop will discuss the following aspects of their new online courses:

- John Navarro, CRMJ 200, Criminal Justice Research Methods; Planning for an Asynchronous Online Course
- Erika Leptich, ENGL 310, Advanced Expository Writing; The use of Canvas discussion boards (whole class and groups) and the gradebook
- Fabrice Conte-Williamson, THEA 208, Multicultural Theatre in America
- Michael Hansen, POLS 214, Legislative Politics; “Utilizing multi-material online instruction for teaching data science application”
- Pramesti Resiandini, ECON 101, The American Economy
- Maggie Loney, COMM; The use of Kaltura for a podcast project to introduce students to another form of journalism
- Kamil Samara, CSCI 477/677, Computer COMM & Network

Please RSVP for this lunch session. Space is limited and will be awarded on a first-come first-serve basis through the registration process.

This showcase session is sponsored by the Teaching & Learning Center and the Provost's Office.