

8th Annual Online Course Showcase

Wednesday, February 21, 2018
12:00 – 1:30 p.m.
Learning Tech Lab, WYLL D103

At this showcase participants will have hands-on engagement in a mock-up D2L course. Presenters who completed the Summer Course Development Workshop will discuss the following aspects of their new online courses. Participants will be enrolled in a mock-up version of the presenter's courses so that they may engage with the content being presented.

- Anastasia Schoettler, MATH 103, Elementary Statistics: Statistics project assignments; data collection and organization;
- Phillip Wagner, SOCA 406, Advanced Program Evaluation: Discussion Forum release conditions;
- Brian Gill, THEA 357, History and Literature from 1915 to Present: Using Quizzing to assess PowerPoint content effectiveness;
- Dana Ryan, PDEV 601: Developmental Reading, PreK-12: Designing the "START HERE" module to work with older adult learners;
- Greg Cramer, EDU 235, Home, School and Culture: The "Film Club" and Kanopy streaming video;
- Fabian Preuss, BIOS 109, Biology of Aging:

Lunch will be provided. Please RSVP for this hands-on session. Space is limited and will be awarded on a first-come first-serve basis through the registration process.

This showcase session is sponsored by the Teaching & Learning Center and the Provost's Office.
