Street and Avenue Guide and Householders' Directory

1927

Wright Directory Co., Publishers.

NEW NUMBERING SYSTEM

According to the new system of numbering, all thoroughfares running in a general east and west direction are called "streets" and are named numerically and consecutively, beginning at northern limits.

All thoroughfares running in a general north and south direction are called "avenues" and are named numerically and consecutively, beginning at Lake Michigan.

All Diagonal thoroughfares are called "roads."

All short or disconnected thoroughfares running in a general east and west direction are called "places" and are designated by the same number as the street immediately north thereof.

All short or disconnected thoroughfares running in a general north and south direction are called "courts" and are designated by the same number as the avenue immediately east thereof.

All thoroughfares especially designated park and pleasure drives are called "boulevards."

Even numbers will be found on the right-hand side of all thoroughfares, progressing with the numbers. Odd numbers will be found on the left-hand side of all thoroughfares progressing with the numbers. One hundred numbers are allotted to each block

Places

In the following list the streets, avenues, courts and places are arranged numerically, the intersecting streets being shown. Both new and old numbers are given, the first number being the new and the number following being the old. At the beginning of each street, the corresponding old street names are shown.

All "streets" run east and west and are named numerically and consecutively, beginning at northern limits.

All "avenues" run north and south and are named numerically and consecutively beginning at Lake Michigan and increasing towards western limits.

All "courts" run east and south and are designated by the same number as the avenue immediately east thereof. For example 13th Court would be between 13th and 14th avenues.

All "places" run east and west and are designated by the same number as the street immediately north thereof. For example 59th place would be between 59th and 60th streets.

As one hundred numbers are allotted to each block, 6400 25th av would be corner of 25th avenue and 64th street; 1200 63d would be cor of 63d street and 12th avenue, etc.
