WHAT IS ROTC?
The Reserve Officers’ Training Corps (ROTC) is a college-level leadership program, which complements and enhances your college experience while training you to become a commissioned officer. ROTC offers significant advantages in providing both tuition assistance and a guaranteed post-college career upon commissioning as a second lieutenant. Army ROTC is unique, from other service’s ROTC, in that you may serve either on active duty or in the Army Reserves or the National Guard.

WHY CHOOSE ROTC?
- Experience the best leadership courses in the country and they are part of the college curriculum
- Gain the tools, training, and experience that will help you succeed in any competitive environment
- Program compliments most college majors
- Offers a variety of scholarships that assist in reaching your goals and offset the cost of college
- Experience a range of international career opportunities, more than any other U.S. military branch.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

WILL I BE SENT TO COMBAT WHILE IN COLLEGE OR AFTER GRADUATION?
You won't be deployed with a ROTC contract. After graduation, certain jobs and units in the Army see combat more frequently than others.

WHAT IS A TYPICAL WEEK LIKE FOR A CADET?
Cadets spend about 10 hours a week doing training, class, and other things for ROTC.

HOW DO I JOIN ROTC?
You can apply for a scholarship in high school. Or you can register for the classes once you arrive on campus!

DO I HAVE TO GO TO BASIC TRAINING?
No, attendance at Basic Training is not required for ROTC.
